from the other boleyne girl to fingersmith this collection explores the popularity of female centred historical novels in recent years it asks how these representations are influenced by contemporary gender politics and whether they can be seen as part of a wider feminist project to recover women's history excerpt from a guide to historical fiction tales has written an able defence of the reading of this kind of romance to which i have little to add except by the way of emphasis historical fiction is not history but it is often better than history a fine historical painting a pageant or a play may easily teach more and carry a deeper impression than whole chapters of description and analysis esmond and tom fones are indispensable adjuncts to lecky scott and dumas will always have a larger history class than any two regular historians you could name even a second rate historical novel may have ample excuse for existence but a good one good that is merely as a story though chronology may be at fault and facts inaccurately stated will probably succeed in making a period live in the imagination when text books merely give us dry bones about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works let me take you into an old fashioned country house built by architects of the early reign of james the first it had all the peculiarities i might almost say the oddities of that particular epoch in the building art chimneys innumerable had it heaven only knows what rooms they ventilated but their name must have been legion the windows were not fewer in number and much more irregular for the chimneys were gathered together in some sort of symmetrical arrangement while the windows were scattered all over the various faces of the building with no apparent arrangement at all heaven knows also what rooms they lighted or were intended to light for they very little served the purpose being narrow and obstructed by the stone mullions of the elizabethan age each too had its label of stone superincumbent and projecting from the brick work which might leave the period of construction somewhat doubtful but the gables decided the fact they too were manifold for although the house had been built all at once it seemed nevertheless to have been erected in detached masses and joined together as best the builder could so that there were no less than six gables turning north south east and west with four right angles and flat walls between them these gables were surmounted topped as it were by a triangular wall somewhat higher than the acute roof and this wall was constructed with a row of steps coped with freestone on either side of the ascent as if the architect had fancied that some man or statue would one day or another have to climb up to the top of the pyramid and take his place upon the crowning stone it was a gloomy old edifice the bricks had become discolored the livery of age yellow and gray lichen was upon it daws hovered round the chimney tops rooks passed cawing over it on the way to their conventicle hard by no swallow built under the eaves and the trees as if repelled by its stern cold aspect retreated from it on three sides leaving it alone on its own flat ground like a moody man amidst a gay society on the fourth side indeed an avenue that is to say two rows of old elms crept cautiously up to it in a winding and sinuous course as if afraid of approaching too rapidly and at the distance of some five or six hundred yards clumps of old trees beeches and ever green oaks and things of sombre foliage dotted the park only enlivened by here and there a herd of deer now and then a milk maid a country woman going to church or market a peasant or at game keeper might be seen traversing the dry brown expanse of grass and but rarely deviating from a beaten path which led from one stile over the path wall to another it was all sombre and monotonous the very spirit of dulness seemed to hang over it and the clouds themselves the rapid sportive clouds free denizens of the sky and playmates of the wind and sunbeam appeared to grow dull and tardy as they passed across the wide space open to the view and to proceed with awe and gravity like timid youth in the presence of stern old age enough of the outside of the house let me take you into the interior reader and into one particular room not the largest and the finest but one of the highest it was a little oblong chamber with one window which was ornamented the only ornament the chamber had with a decent curtain of red and white checked linen on the side next the door and between it and the western wall was a small bed a walnut tree table and two or three chairs were near the window in one corner stood a washing stand not very tidily arranged in another chest of drawers and opposite the fire place hung from nails driven into the wall two or three shelves of the same material as the table each supporting a row of books which by the dark black covers brown edges and thumbled corners seemed to have a right to boast of some antiquity and much use at the table as you perceive there is seated a boy of some fifteen years of age with pen and ink and paper and an open book if you look over his shoulder you will perceive that the words are latin yet he reads it with ease and facility and seeks no aid from the dictionary it is the cato major of cicero heaven what a book for a child like that to read boyhood studying old age
